

A new innovation has arrived to change the world ... and it's insulation. The development of ECOSE® Technology - a revolutionary bio-based binder technology - has led to the creation of a new kind of mineral wool insulation that is naturally brown. It offers significant improvements in terms of feel, handling and environmental performance whilst still delivering all the benefits you are used to from our traditional mineral wool.

These insulation products, covering Knauf Insulation's core glass and rock mineral wool range with ECOSE® Technology, have now been unified under a single name - Earthwool®. Replacing Knauf Insulation's Crown and Rocksilk brands, Earthwool® represents the ultimate solution for any application, offering levels of sustainability that we can all feel good about.
